QIKIQTANI
INUIT ASSOCIATION

The Qikiqtani Inuit Association (QIA) is a not-for-profit society, which represents approximately 15,500 Inuit in the Qikiqtani region of Nunavut. The Qikiqtani region includes 13 communities from Grise Fiord, in the High Arctic, down to Sanikiluaq, on the Belcher Islands.

QIA was established to protect, promote and advance the rights and benefits of Qikiqtani Inuit. It is a Designated Inuit Organization under the Nunavut Agreement. QIA is one of three Regional Inuit Associations affiliated with Nunavut Tunngavik Inc.; the other associations include the Kitikmeot Inuit Association and the Kivalliq Inuit Association. We work closely with our partners, such as Inuit Tapiriit Kanatami and the Inuit Circumpolar Council Canada, as well as different levels of government, to represent Inuit in the Inuit Nunangat.

Two other organizations operate under the QIA umbrella: Kakivak Association, responsible for community economic development and small businesses; and Qikiqtaaluk Corporation, created to manage economic development on behalf of QIA.

2020 began with unprecedented events and drastic changes. In Nunavut, the threat of the COVID-19 pandemic sparked reminders of past trauma of tuberculosis and the ongoing shortcomings of healthcare and housing in our territory.

Despite these challenges, in the past few months, I have also seen the best of Inuit. I have seen generosity and kindness, community members sharing country food and supporting Elders and those in need. I am proud of how Qikiqtani Inuit have risen to the challenges posed by COVID-19 and I am eager to see us push past these difficult days to better times.

Because of the COVID-19 pandemic, all our work and modes of operation changed in early 2020. We had to adjust where we work and how we work. Our team re-organized our priority files and created new emergency initiatives.

In mid-March, QIA suspended all our regular programs and closed our offices to the public. Our staff's efforts were re-directed to design new emergency initiatives. We ramped up our communications and public outreach efforts to inform and educate Qikiqtani Inuit about COVID-19 prevention and mitigation measures.

In April, QIA rolled out two initiatives: food vouchers for Elders and emergency funding for Qikiqtani families to social distance on-the-land and harvest.

In June, QIA launched a laptops-for-students initiative to help eligible primary and secondary school students whose education had been disrupted by COVID-19.

To help feed our communities during the height of the pandemic, QIA extended funds to Qikiqtani Hunters and Trappers Organizations (HTOs). In March, QIA matched Nunavut Tunngavik's $5,000 donation to Qikiqtani Region HTOs for a total of $10,000 for each community. In July, QIA accessed the Community Food Centres' Canada's Good Food Access Fund and through this presented each HTO in the Qikiqtani Region with an additional contribution of $6,577.

To assist Inuit-owned businesses survive the COVID-19 pandemic, QIA supported Kakivak to implement two programs. The $1 million Qikiqtani COVID-19 Emergency Wage Subsidy Program and the $500,000 Qikiqtani COVID-19 Business Relief Program.

Despite the challenges posed by COVID-19 our team has continued to make tremendous strides on key files.

In July 2020, QIA announced the signing of the Mary River Inuit Certainty Agreement with Baffinland. This agreement significantly improves on benefits previously negotiated under the Mary River Inuit Impact and Benefit Agreement.

Our Department of Marine and Wildlife continues to deliver new benefits for Inuit through Tallurutiup Imanga. In July 2020, QIA distributed $100,000 to HTOs in the five Tallurutiup Imanga National Marine Conservation Area communities of Arctic Bay, Clyde River, Grise Fiord, Pond Inlet and Resolute Bay.

Our Nauttisuqtiit team is growing with new staff in each of the five impacted communities. In Arctic Bay, our team has been providing country food to their community during the pandemic.

We are advancing work on infrastructure projects in the Tallurutiup Imanga National Marine Conservation Area communities. Work completed includes feasibility studies for multi-use facilities in each of the five communities, a Memorandum of Understanding for community harbours in Grise Fiord and Resolute Bay, and consultations on harbour designs in Arctic Bay and Clyde River.

The Qikiqtani Truth Commission remains a priority file and we have taken steps towards developing programs. QIA hired a Qimmiit Revitalization Coordinator who will be focusing on qimmiit related projects and programs.

Through the Qikiqtani Truth Commission agreement, QIA received the initial $17.5 million from the Government of Canada. A contribution agreement for $2.5 million is in progress as is negotiations to reach our larger goal and financial agreement. These discussions have been impacted by COVID-19.

I want to conclude by taking a moment to commemorate our colleague Johnny Malaiya Kublu. Once again, I want to extend condolences to his family, friends and community members in Igloolik.

Johnny Malaiya Kublu was a kind, humble and well-respected community leader. He had a passion for our culture and worked hard to record and preserve the knowledge of Inuit Elders. He will be greatly missed.

These are unprecedented times and at QIA we are doing our best to continue to work with and support public health officials to keep Nunavummiut safe.

Despite these challenges, I am extremely proud of our team and how we have adapted to meet the challenges at hand. We are acclimatizing to the new normal of operating during a pandemic and will continue to work to serve Qikiqtani Inuit.

QIA RESPONSE TO COVID-19

In mid-March QIA implemented new measures in response to COVID-19 and suspended all regular programs and closed our offices to the public. Our staff's efforts were re-directed to design new emergency initiatives. On March 30, QIA rolled out two initiatives to assist Qikiqtani Inuit during the COVID-19 pandemic including food vouchers for Elders and emergency funding for Qikiqtani families to social distance on-the-land and harvest.

The funds for QIA's COVID-19 response plan came from the Indigenous Community Support Fund (ICSF) announced by the Federal Government on March 25, 2020. QIA's share of that fund is approximately $6.1 million ($6,132,544).

These initiatives have been a huge success. Our online applications for the on-the-land program were completed quickly. Families expressed their gratitude and sent photos and messages from successful on-the-land trips from across the Qikiqtani Region. Elders have told us that the grocery vouchers made a big difference in their lives – giving them regular access to necessary household goods.

COVID-19 has greatly impacted how we conduct ourselves, at work and at home. We are acclimatizing to the new normal and are finding alternative ways to deliver our programming while respecting social distancing and public health measures.

QIA allocated emergency financial support to help Elders access healthy food and necessary cleaning supplies. This support helped to mitigate the impact of the pandemic on Qikiqtani Elders.

QIA worked in partnership with Arctic Co-operatives to distribute $250 vouchers every other week to Elders. This program ran from April 14 to August 18, 2020.

The vouchers were distributed to Inuit Elders 60 years and above. Elders in Clyde River received grocery hampers with help from the Ilisaqsivik Society.

QIA created the following resources in the first months of COVID-19 to support Qikiqtani families:

- A COVID-19 portal on our website which helps Inuit access all essential applications and resources.
- An educational resource page on our website for families homeschooling.
- Posters that share important information about COVID-19 such as how long the virus can linger on different surfaces.
- A series of short animated GIFs to help families talk about COVID-19.
- Several mini music videos created in partnership with Becky Han to educate Inuit about issues such as frequent handwashing and social distancing to protect Elders.

In September 2020, QIA distributed 105 Google Pixelbook Go 13.3 inch laptops to help eligible students whose education has been disrupted by COVID-19.

The initial funds for 65 laptops came from the Mastercard Foundation and the Federal Government. The initiative was later expanded with a contribution of 40 additional laptops from Actua, Canada's largest science, technology, engineering and math (STEM) outreach organization.

Any Inuk student between the ages of 8 and 18 who has lived for at least one year in one of the 13 Qikiqtani communities was eligible for the program.

EXPANSION OF THE NAUTTIQSUQTIIT

The success of the Nauttisuqtiit, Inuit steward, pilot program in Arctic Bay led to its expansion to the other four Tallurutiup Imanga communities. QIA now has full-time staff positions in Arctic Bay, Clyde River, Grise Fiord, Pond Inlet and Resolute Bay. This program is providing Inuit jobs as environmental stewards and harvesters. It also provides a foundation for mentorship, training, and economic development for Inuit.

In 2020, the Arctic Bay Nauttiqsuqtiit played a key role in supporting the community through the COVID-19 pandemic. The team harvested and provided healthy country food to their community during the peak of the pandemic.

MONEY TO BOLSTER THE CAPACITY OF HTOs

In July 2020, QIA distributed $100,000 to Hunters and Trappers Organizations (HTOs) in the five impacted communities of Arctic Bay, Clyde River, Grise Fiord, Pond Inlet and Resolute Bay. The funds are part of the benefits negotiated through the Tallurutiup Imanga Inuit Impact and Benefit Agreement (IIBA).

The money is intended to assist Hunters and Trappers Organizations strengthen their capacity to respond to an increase in requests related to their duties under the Nunavut Agreement, arising from the establishment of Tallurutiup Imanga National Marine Conservation Area.

Under the Tallurutiup Imanga Inuit Impact and Benefit Agreement the five HTOs will receive $250,000 each fiscal year. The $100,000 for each HTO is the allocation for the 2019-2020 and 2020-2021 fiscal years.

QIA conducted consultations with each of the HTOs in January and February 2020 regarding their needs and plans for these funds. Many of the HTOs are planning to use the money to bolster their office space, procure necessary equipment, conduct research and mount community events.

ADVANCEMENT OF INFRASTRUCTURE PROJECTS

Despite the challenges posed by COVID-19, QIA continues to advance infrastructure projects related to the Tallurutiup Imanga Inuit Impact and Benefit Agreement (IIBA). We are working closely with the Qikiqtaaluk Business Development Corporation, a wholly-owned QC subsidiary, to complete business plans and feasibility studies for multi-use facilities in each of the five communities.

We are also working with the Government of Nunavut and Transport Canada on a Memorandum of Understanding to deliver community harbours in Grise Fiord and Resolute Bay. Additionally, we supported a joint consultation on harbour design in Arctic Bay and Clyde River with the Department of Fisheries and Oceans.

AULATTIQATIGIIT BOARD AND IMAQ INUIT ADVISORY COMMITTEE

QIA has established the joint Inuit and Government of Canada governance model for Tallurutiup Imanga. The Aulattiqatigiit Board is consensus-based and will oversee the management of Tallurutiup Imanga. Imaq is an Inuit advisory committee, made to support the management and delivery of benefits under the IIBA. The five adjacent communities were consulted and involved in the development and design of Imaq.

PERMANENT PROTECTION FOR TUVAIJUITTUQ

QIA is also working on the feasibility process towards permanent protection of Tuvaijuittuq Marine Protected Area. We will undertake an Inuit Qaujimanituqangit study of the Ellesmere Island marine region, which will inform long-term protection.

We are looking forward to another impactful year for our staff, our communities and our region as we continue projects related to Tallurutiup Imanga and Tuvaijuittuq.

INUIT CERTAINTY AGREEMENT

QIA and Baffinland Iron Mines signed an Inuit Certainty Agreement (ICA) on June 16, 2020. The commitments agreed to under the Inuit Certainty Agreement will be incorporated into the Mary River Project Inuit Impact and Benefit Agreement (IIBA) and Commercial Lease.

The Mary River IIBA was negotiated between the QIA and Baffinland Iron Mines in accordance with the Nunavut Agreement. The Mary River IIBA was first signed in 2013 and was amended in 2018.

The Inuit Certainty Agreement sets a new benchmark for Inuit benefit agreements. The ICA provides greater Inuit control and oversight, direct community benefits and new and expanded programs for Inuit in communities impacted by the Mary River Project.

There are five key themes to the Inuit Certainty Agreement:

- Environmental protection, Inuit-led independent monitoring, and comprehensive adaptive management plans jointly approved by QIA;
- Improved and expanded wildlife compensation;
- Changes to employment, training and contracting with measurable and enforceable goals with clear procedures regarding remedial measures;
- Community direct benefits; and
- Significant royalty improvements

The Mary River Project ICA Outreach Guide is an initiative designed to make the ICA more accessible and easier to understand. QIA created the outreach material to ensure that Inuit in the Qikiqtani Region had full access to and information about the benefits outlined in the ICA.

The Guide can be accessed through our website.

QIA continues efforts to increase Inuit employment throughout the Qikiqtani Region with Tuttarvik, our online labour database, and the Qikiqtani Skills Training for Employment Partnership (Q-STEP). Tuttarvik connects Inuit to employment, education and skill development opportunities while Q-STEP provides Inuit the training needed for jobs in emerging sectors like mining. Q-STEP is funded partly by the Government of Canada's Skills and Partnership Fund.

On August 14, 2019, the Government of Canada formally acknowledged and apologized for modern-day colonial practices imposed on Inuit in the Qikiqtani Region between 1950 and 1975, such as forced relocations, family separation, and killing of qimmiit.

Along with this apology was a signing of a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) and a promise of a renewed partnership towards positive change.

To date, the Federal Government has pledged $20 million to the Qikiqtani Inuit Association for work related to the Qikiqtani Truth Commission. Negotiations to reach our financial goal have been impacted by COVID-19.

QIA's work on initiatives related to the Qikiqtani Truth Commission have also been impacted by COVID-19, with the closure of our offices and programs from mid-March to mid-June.

To date, QIA has used some of the initial resources received from the Government of Canada to hire a Qimmiit Revitalization Coordinator, who is focusing on qimmiit related projects and programs. The Qimmiit Revitalization Coordinator's work includes:

- Building a database of qimmiit practitioners in the Qikiqtani Region
- Starting a survey with qimmiit practitioners in the Qikiqtani Region on a strengths and needs assessment

The Qikiqtani Truth Commission was instrumental in gaining recognition for serious historic injustices that were committed by the Government of Canada. QIA is committed to working with our partners to continue to build a sustainable response to the recommendations of the Qikiqtani Truth Commission's final report.

QIA has been supporting Qikiqtani Inuit parents access daycares since the launch of the Daycare Subsidy Program in 2017. Qikiqtani Inuit parents who use licensed daycare centers are eligible for the subsidy.

Kakivak Association delivers this subsidy on behalf of QIA.

During 2019-2020, a new center opened in Qikiqtarjuaq. The new center in Qikiqtarjuaq expands the reach of this program to eight Qikiqtani communities.

QIA presented its first Inuktut Language Award to high school graduate Katie Kalluk, during the graduation ceremony at Inukshuk High School in Iqaluit on June 23, 2020.

The $1,000 award, created to celebrate students who demonstrate dedication to the preservation and practice of Inuktut throughout their high school careers, is a partnership between QIA and Inukshuk High School.

This is the first time the award has been presented.

Kalluk, originally from Resolute Bay, will attend the Nunavut Sivuniksavut program in fall 2021 to continue her studies.

QIA proudly celebrated our fourth annual Inuktitut Language Month in February 2020. As part of Inuktitut Language Month, we launched a campaign to promote and celebrate our language which included:

- A book showcase introducing a different Inuktitut book each day in February on our social media sites – Facebook, Twitter and Instagram. These books were published by Inhabit Media with the help of QIA funds. QIA shared free digital download links for each book.
- A book signing with Inuit authors hosted in partnership with Inhabit Media.
- A Nunavut Children's Film Festival featuring short Inuktitut animations for kids.
- An Inuktitut song/poem contest asking participants to share an original short song or poem with QIA on social media using the hashtag #QIAinuk20.

QIA has continued to promote and share our love of Inuktitut on Facebook, Instagram and Twitter through our Word of the Day project.

Our social media posts are shared hundreds of times daily across Canada, creating awareness and interest in Inuktitut.

In 2019-2020, QIA expanded the Word of the Day project by recording the words and phrases as audio clips. Social media users can listen to the audio clips to learn correct Inuktitut pronunciation while viewing the Inuit art.

QIA has received funding from Government of Nunavut’s Department of Culture and Heritage to continue and expand this project.

Since 2014 the Ilagiiktunut Fund has supported social and cultural projects for Inuit living in the five communities impacted by the Mary River mine. QIA and Baffinland each contribute $555,000 per year to the Fund, for a total of $1.1 million per year. Organizations and Inuit based in, or working with, the impacted communities can apply for this Fund.

In 2019–2020 projects with a focus on resilient communities, strong families and job readiness were prioritized by the Ilagiiktunut Fund selection committee. Thirty-eight projects were supported by the Ilagiiktunut Fund.

The Qikiqtani Cultural Activities Program (QCAP) is an application-based program that provides funding for community-led projects that foster the preservation and transmission of traditional skills and increase participation in cultural activities. The long-term intention of QCAP is to strengthen Inuit cultural identity and empower Qikiqtani Inuit.

In 2019-2020, the QCAP budget was $630,000 for all 13 communities. This gave QIA a target of approximately $48,000 per community. QIA approved 43 projects; 42 of the projects were completed.

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, QIA paused regular programming, which included QCAP. This caused an interruption in receiving 2019-2020 reports from project leaders, as well as our review of applications for the 2020-2021 year.

Kakivak Association is the non-profit community economic development organization and small business arm of QIA. Kakivak provides Inuit training, programs and services that strengthen Qikiqtani communities, organizations, and businesses.

Kakivak has four program and service delivery departments: Training and Employment, Childcare, Youth and Disabilities, Business Development and Career Services. The Association provides an average of $7.5 million per year in total funding through 16 different programs.

Kakivak Association provides funding to students attending post-secondary education programs and training. The new Indigenous Skills and Employment Training Program allows Kakivak greater program flexibility and long-term arrangements than its predecessor program, enabling better support for Inuit students. On average, Kakivak funds 200 students and training participants each year.

Each year Kakivak provides over $250,000 to support Nunavut Sivuniksavut. Kakivak also supports Inuit youth to attend Northern Youth Abroad, Students on Ice, various science camps and supports youth summer employment opportunities.

Part of the Association's work includes providing support services and funding to help Inuit start-up and expand their businesses. The business development services include support for concept development, business planning, financing, project implementation and counselling. Kakivak also supports visual artists with grants for supplies and equipment.

On March 11 the World Health Organization announced that COVID-19 was a global pandemic.

Kakivak’s first priority was assisting clients. During the following weeks we quickly took action to support the individuals, businesses and organizations that depended on Kakivak for financial support. Our first responses included:

- Advancing funds for daycare centers up to the end of September
- Notifying students that they would still receive their approved funding for living expenses, even if their classes were cancelled
- Providing initial relief to businesses by postponing loan payments
- Adjusting our management systems so that payments could be made by electronic funds transfers rather than by cheque

Soon afterwards Kakivak and QIA began working together to develop and launch two new COVID-19 relief programs. The Qikiqtani COVID-19 Business Relief Program was launched to provide direct support for small Inuit-owned businesses that were forced to close or had significant reductions in revenue due to the pandemic, and the Qikiqtani COVID-19 Wage Subsidy and Training Program was launched to help employers keep Inuit employed. By summer 2020 over $500,000 had been provided under these COVID-19 relief programs.

Qikiqtaaluk Corporation's 36th year of operation was a year of focusing on delivering major projects and important initiatives. QC is advancing a substantial capital portfolio representing legacy investments that will have lasting social and economic benefits for Inuit in our Region and across Nunavut.

QC's 2019-2020 Annual Report details the QC and Group of Companies' work in the 2019-2020 fiscal year. The Annual Report is available on the QC website at www.qcorp.ca

QC COVID-19 RESPONSE

As a result of the COVID-19 global pandemic, QC's work and modes of operation changed abruptly in March. Wellness of our communities, worker safety, and supporting our public health officials became priority. QC adjusted operations and minimized workers on site and encouraged working from home.

TALLURUTIUP IMANGA MULTI-USE FACILITIES

QIA designated QC's wholly owned company, Qikiqtaaluk Business Development Corporation (QBDC), to lead the project management contract for the planning and feasibility activities for the five High Arctic multi-use facilities.

Despite the challenges of COVID-19, QBDC completed the Needs Assessment Report including conceptual designs and site feasibility plans. QBDC will engage communities and stakeholders to advance the feasibility and sustainability plans for the multi-use facilities.

AQSARNIIT HOTEL AND CONFERENCE CENTRE

Construction of the Aqsarniit Hotel & Conference Centre (AHCC) significantly progressed throughout 2019-2020. By March the exterior building envelope was completed with interior work nearing completion.

On March 15, 2020 the AHCC construction site was temporarily shut down due to COVID-19 and the target opening of June delayed.

The construction site reopened in June with COVID-19 protocols and the AHCC plans to welcome guests in Fall 2020.

QC FISHERIES RESEARCH VESSEL

The QC Fisheries Division has been collaborating with Qikiqtani communities to advance inshore fisheries development across our Region. QC has invested $2.5 million in a multi-purpose research vessel. The construction of this vessel was completed in June 2020.

The vessel will be used as a platform to train community members in inshore marine research, with the objective to have Nunavummiut lead and conduct future research activities.

With this state-of-the-art research vessel Qikiqtani Inuit will have the resources they need to initiate local inshore fisheries supporting a conservation economy and creating local economic opportunities.

The research vessel has been named RV Ludy Pudluk in honour of the late Ludy Pudluk who served on the QC Board for over two decades. Pudluk was a strong advocate for creating opportunities for community economic development and was dedicated to advancing the inshore fishery in the Qikiqtani Region.

COMMUNITY INVESTMENT AND SPONSORSHIPS

QC continues to support Qikiqtani communities, youth and leaders through contributions and sponsorships to events, community groups, programs and individuals.

In 2019-2020, QC, the QC Fisheries Division and Qikiqtaaluk Properties Inc. awarded four scholarships, with a total value of $24,000. QC provided nearly $84,000 in contributions: $32,400 to community events and programs, over $41,000 to sports teams and sporting events, and $10,330 to individual donations.

QC presented the Qikiqtani Inuit Association (QIA), an annual dividend cheque for $1,000,000 at the QIA Annual General Meeting in October 2019. Since the creation of the Dividends Policy in 2009, QC has contributed over $10,250,000 in dividends to QIA.

Notes:

The summarized statement of operations presented above and the summarized statement of financial position were compiled from QIA's non-consolidated 2019-2020 audited financial statements. QIA uses the deferral method of accounting.

The General Fund accounts for QIA's general operating and administrative activities. This fund reports contributions from NTI, Government of Canada, interest and other revenue and has mostly unrestricted resources.

The Economic Development Fund reports activities around Inuit economic well-being and self-sufficiency.

The Legacy Fund reports activities that provide for the benefits and opportunities arising from royalties and dividends paid to QIA.
